Northeastern State University Graduate College

Northeastern State University's Graduate College provides expanded educational opportunities in a variety of programs. Degree programs within the Graduate College give students who have earned undergraduate degrees the necessary educational edge to compete in today's workplace.

Our faculty excel in their respective disciplines. They truly enjoy teaching, research, and service to their communities. You will find that the graduate classes are small, allowing for better relationships between faculty and students. Many of our faculty also serve as graduate advisors to assist you in every way and ensure your experience at NSU is a positive one. Further, the Graduate College is committed to making certain that your progress through your graduate experience is seamless, efficient and meaningful.

With evening classes to accommodate the working student, NSU's graduate programs offer many options for students seeking professional development and advancement. Graduate students can choose from several degree programs and graduate certificate programs. A limited number of graduate assistantship positions are available with each of the academic colleges.
